

GLENN CONNLEY JOINS PRIME7

PRIME7 today announced the appointment of Glenn Connley as News Editor of its Albury and Wagga Wagga local news bulletins.

PRIME7's Head of News, Paul Patrick said, "Glenn's extensive experience in news gathering and production will be invaluable in maintaining the PRIME7 Local News market position, as the leading local news provider across the Border and Riverina regions".

"I couldn't be more excited to be joining PRIME7. This is a great time to be working in regional television news and it's a privilege to join the team at Australia's undisputed number one regional television network", added Connley.

"I grew up in a small country town watching regional news. This feels like the perfect fit for me after more than twenty-five years working in commercial news, public affairs and sport in Sydney, Melbourne, London and Singapore."

Glenn Connley began his media career with the Herald Sun in 1990. He then went onto positions at radio station 3AW in Melbourne, ESPN, StarHub and has held senior reporter roles at both the Nine Network and Network TEN.

Most recently Glenn was employed as a senior producer for the Seven Network's Sunday Night program.

Glenn Connley's position is effective immediately.
